Safety and Handling

See "Safety, handling and support" in the iPhone User Guide.

Exposure to Radio Frequency

On iPhone, go to Settings > General > Legal & Regulatory > RF Exposure. Or go to apple.com/uk/legal/rfexposure.

Battery and Charging

An iPhone battery should only be repaired by a trained technician to avoid battery damage, which could cause overheating, fire or injury. Batteries should be recycled or disposed of separately from household waste and according to local environmental laws and guidelines. For information about Apple lithium-ion batteries and battery service and recycling, go to apple.com/uk/batteries/service-and-recycling. For information about charging, see "Important safety information" in the iPhone User Guide.

Lasers

The proximity sensor and the TrueDepth camera system contain one or more lasers. These laser systems may be disabled for safety reasons if the device is damaged or malfunctions. If you receive a notification on your iPhone that the laser system is disabled, you should always have it repaired by Apple or an authorised service provider. Improper repair, modification or use of non-genuine Apple components in the laser systems may prevent the safety mechanisms from functioning properly, and could cause hazardous exposure and injury to eyes or skin.

Hearing Aid Compatibility (HAC)

Go to support.apple.com/en-gb/HT202186 or see "Hearing devices" in the iPhone User Guide.

Avoid Hearing Damage

To prevent possible hearing damage, do not listen at high volume levels for long periods. More information about sound and hearing is available online at apple.com/uk/sound and in "Important safety information" in the iPhone User Guide.

Medical Device Interference

iPhone contains magnets as well as components and/or radios that may interfere with medical devices. See "Important safety information" in the iPhone User Guide.
